

THE CIRCLE IN THE SQUARE

PRESENTATION BY CITIZENS TO TOWN BIG LOCAL EVENT.

Dr. J. A. Singmaster Points to the Future of Town Beautiful in Telling of its Past.

The presentation of the circle in the Square with its corners bright green with new grass and decorated profusely with flags was an event long to be remembered. The theme, idea and ideal of this occasion was expressed by Dr. J. A. Singmaster in his address.

Fellow Citizens: Gettysburg is to be congratulated on the occasion of the fine ornamentation of its Public Square. A great debt of gratitude is due to all who have contributed and especially to those who have wrought upon it, and to none more than to Mr. Allan B. Plank, who has given attention, time and money without stint to the execution of the plans of the architect, Mr. George Baum.

It would be an exaggeration to say that our Square now ranks with the great squares of the cities of America. An Europe with their marbles and bronzes. We cannot boast of a Trajan's Column with its towering Nelson column. But we do not need such a monument, for we already have a replica of that column in the Stannard memorial near the High Water Mark. On this best marked battle-field of the world we have a thousand markers and monuments, many of which are the products of genius. It would be, therefore, unnecessary and difficult with the means at our disposal to have placed here anything to excel what we already have.

Even the effigy of the illustrious Lincoln could add but little to the associations which cluster about this place. It was from the window of yonder hospitable Will's Mansion that the pathetic eyes of the martyr President looked upon this spot when he gave the final touches to that immortal address which begins "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal"—the address which concludes with the noble climax, "That we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." In the gigantic struggle for world-wide liberty for which our nation is again pouring out its best blood, the words of Lincoln have an abiding significance.

The circle with its grass and shrubbery, its fountain and lights is beautiful in its simplicity and restful to the eye. It will prove satisfactory to our people and pleasing to the visitors who come to this shrine of human liberty from all parts of the world. There is also a symbolism in the water and the light which suggests life and immortality. It reminds us of the God of Israel, who is also our God, who opened the rock in the wilderness and gave His people drink, and gave them a pillar of fire to guide them in their journey. May the Lord God be gracious to us, and refresh and guide our great people!

The improvements which we dedicate tonight seem to me to be but a part of a great plan which we have been almost unconsciously working out. Our history and environment make anything incongruous which is not in harmony with them. For a long time it has been felt that something should be done to make this spot worthy of Gettysburg. We, therefore, hail this evidence of public spirit and civic pride. It stands for intelligence, refinement and good taste. It will stimulate us to make every part of our town more lovely. It will exert an elevating influence on the community which will be reflected in further public and private improvements.

The plan which we are already realizing grows out of the divine harmony which the great Creator has stamped upon nature about us. Long, long before our forefathers built their humble cabins on this site, God gave it a glorious setting. The natural beauty of these vales and plains, these hills and mountains is unsurpassed; and when the splendor of the sunset blazes in the sky and touches the crown of South Mountain with gold and crimson, it reminds one of the undying glory of the celestial world.

Not only does Gettysburg enjoy the blessing of a beautiful natural environment, but in the providence of God it stands in the midst of a fine park upon which a generous government has lavished its bounty. The men to whom we are indebted for the preservation of the landmarks of the great battle without marring its natural features have practiced the high art of concealing art. Not a tree or bush or rock has been sacrificed to an artificial scheme. The fine avenues have been placed in such harmony with their surroundings that they blend unobtrusively into the landscape. While the chief architects of this great park are still with us, let us gratefully recognize their ripe judgment, rare skill and ceaseless devotion in the working out of a noble conception, which to them was not a task but a labor of love.

All honor to Col. John P. Nicholson, the Chairman of the Park Commission and to the Chief Engineer, Col. E. B. Cope, as well as to their faithful co-laborers and assistants.

Gettysburg has also its well-kept cemeteries, especially the National Cemetery, beautiful for situation and noted for its variety of rare and splendid trees. The grounds of the Seminary, the College and the Academy are attractive, and many private lawns are worthy of mention. To the late Martin Winter, a public-spirited citizen, whose loss we mourn, belongs the honor of making Broadway the most delightful of our thoroughfares.

Our buildings also challenge attention and are a most important element in making Gettysburg "The Town Beautiful." The Post Office, with its snowy marble moulded in the simple beauty of Greek architecture bears favorable comparison with any edifice of the class in the whole world. We have also excellent school buildings, banks, churches, business houses and fine private residences. And we must not forget the Kurtz Play Ground, a noble benefaction of a former Gettysburgian.

We have much, very much of which we may well be proud, but much remains to be done to merit the name—"The Town Beautiful." Indeed the task implied is never quite done. Its ideal is a growing one, whose realization becomes a delightful employment.

First of all we must become conscious of our deficiencies. We must open our eyes to our failings, study our situation and determine to do the best possible. As we progress larger possibilities will dawn upon us and visions of greater beauty will lure us on.

There are some things, however, so patent now that we need not wait for visions before we give them our earnest attention. Whatever is offensive to good taste or prejudicial to health or the public welfare should be removed at once. And let each one begin at home, and explore garret and cellar and back yard. The pigeon must go. The refuge for rats and vermin must cease. Ill-smelling and disease-breeding rubbish piles must be destroyed. Unightly sheds must be demolished or improved. New houses should not be built without reference to beauty, and hence an architect should be consulted before building even an inexpensive house. Flowers and well-kept lawns will make a humble cottage attractive.

Let us abolish dirt in public as well as in private. Let us wake up to the danger of the germ-infested dust in our wind-swept streets. Let us see the fully and expense of having inflamed eyes, irritated throats and infected lungs. An ounce of prevention is worth pounds of cure. To accomplish this we must start with better streets and cleaner alleys. The net is fundamental and imperative. The cleanliness of nations is conditional in large measure upon the character of their highways. We are realizing this in these war times as never before. Rome understood this twenty centuries ago.

We must be ashamed of the condition of most of our streets. This very spot brings an indictment against our public spirit. The Square now so fittingly ornamented, must be paved to save our self-respect if for no other reason. Then must follow in rapid succession the paving of the streets which radiate from this point.

There are no insuperable difficulties in the way of making Gettysburg one of the most attractive towns in our grand Commonwealth. Let us put away vain excuses and get to work. Let us raise the money by adequate taxation, based upon a larger assessment, and let us appeal to private philanthropy. Let agitation begin and not cease. Our preachers and teachers must influence.

W. S. S. Put-it-Over-Week.

Charles H. Huber, County Chairman of the National War Savings Committee was sent a letter to all district chairmen who have failed thus far to sell or pledge their quotas of War Savings Stamps in their districts. Each chairman is furnished a statement of the quota, amount pledged and the balance needed to fill the quota. The time is here when the rural population will have much produce for sale and should be able to out of their surplus to buy liberally of War Savings Stamps. All the people could not make better efforts to winning the war than by getting the habit of weekly buying War Savings Stamps, loaning money to Uncle Sam daily, weekly or monthly to win the war.

The week beginning Monday, September 2nd, will be called "Put-it-Over-Week." During that week each Chairman will be asked with the assistance of his Captains to make an earnest effort to do the balance. Once the remainder is pledged we can feel reasonably sure that the Stamps will be bought.

Lay your plans now. If you want any meetings call Mr. C. E. Stahl, Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, Gettysburg, Pa. In the intervening weeks, as you have time, see some of your more prosperous men and women and try for large pledges. Our boys must be sustained and remembered this is only a loan, and a gilt-edged one at that.

New Fall Waists, Skirts, Tailored Suits and Winter Coats now arriving at G. W. Weaver & Son's.

Gettysburg Duty Again.

On Thursday Deputy Marshall Harvey L. Smith, of Harrisburg, gave the hotels orders to close all bars and included in the ban are the hotels at Bonneauville and Hunterstown. The order includes all clubs, the wholesale bottling works and all places where liquor can be obtained. At 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon the five-mile limit around Camp Colt became dry. The order came as a surprise. There have been few complaints about Gettysburg and the greater number of the hotel proprietors have been observing their agreement of only selling what is actually used at the bar and not selling bottled goods to be carried away. However, at camp there has been trouble occasioned solely by the fact that some individuals had too much liquor, and it is believed these breeches have led to the dry order.

FRIGHTFUL TRAGIC END

WHEN CLOTHING CAUGHT IN ELEVATOR SHAFT.

William Trone Was Hurlled Around the Shaft and Crushed to Death.

William Trone, of Conowago township, Adams county, met with a horrible accident at the Sheaffer stone quarry at Mt. Pleasant last Friday morning. He was at work when his clothing caught in the belt of the elevator shaft and he was hurled around the shaft and crushed to death. His body struck the machinery with such force as to dismember him. After giving a few gasps he expired. He was 35 years of age and leaves a wife who was Miss Mary Richard of Two Taverns, and four children, Myrtle, Harry, Charles and Ralph.

Jerome Golden died at his home in Bonneauville Aug. 17, after a three-month's illness aged 76 years, 2 months and 3 days. He leaves the following sons and daughters: Emory L. Golden, of Bonneauville; Virgil F. Golden, of Cazenovia, N. Y.; William A. Golden and Joseph H. Golden, of Lester, Pa.; Augustus J. Golden, of Gettysburg; Theresa A. Golden and Anna B. Golden, at home. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having served in the 68th Regiment, Pennsylvania Infantry. Mrs. Golden died about eight years ago. The funeral was on Tuesday with high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's Church, Bonneauville, by Rev. Dr. Nichols, interment in the church cemetery.

John Noel died at New Cumberland last Sunday aged 57 years. He had been in failing health for the past eighteen months. He was a son of Abraham Noel, deceased, and was born and reared in York Springs. He learned the weaving trade with Lewis Heiges at the Good Intent Woolen Mills and for the past thirty years has been an employee of the Susquehanna Woolen Mills at New Cumberland. He is survived by his wife and two daughters. A sister, Mrs. Leander Myers, also survives.

Edward Moritz died on Monday at his home in New Oxford aged 92 years. He leaves a wife and a daughter. The funeral was Thursday, Rev. I. S. Ditzler, of the Reformed Church officiating, with interment in the New Chester Cemetery.

Mrs. Ida A. Hull, wife of Charles P. Hull, of Hanover, died last Saturday from Bright's disease, aged 50 years, 8 months and 21 days. He was born near Abbottstown and was a daughter of Elijah and Elizabeth Keener. Surviving are her husband and five children as follows: Anna E. Emily E. and Lester E. Hull, at home; Cletus E. Hull, of McSherrytown, and Leroy E. Hull, of Battery D, 1st Artillery, A. E. F., France. Three sisters also survive. Mrs. Sue Patterson, of Paradise; Mrs. Annie Strayer, of Hanover, and Mrs. Miranda Reichart, near Abbottstown. The funeral was on Tuesday, services by Rev. Geo. W. Nicely and interment in Hanover Cemetery.

Prof. J. Howard Wert sends the following appreciative notice upon the death of Rev. C. T. Durborow, briefly noted last week:

Rev. Charles T. Durborow, D.D., for many years presiding elder and superintendent of the Atchison district of the Southern Kansas Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, died at his home, Atchison, Kan., 1918, after a sickness of two weeks. Dr. Durborow, came of a long established and honored family of Mt. Joy township, whose ancestral home was near the village locally known as the Two Taverns. For a period of almost a century, his grandfather, Isaac Durborow, his father, Samuel Durborow, and his elder brother, I. Newton Durborow, successively filled the office of Justice of the Peace by the almost unanimous choice of the citizens of the township. All of them were universally recognized as honorable men who would much rather bring about an amicable adjustment of the differences of neighbors than encourage litigation. For nearly one hundred years these three men in succession were regarded as the wise advisers in all matters affecting the welfare of their rural community. Rev. Charles T. Durborow was born Sept. 5, 1855. The home influences in which he was reared were of an ideal nature for the formation of the strong, symmetrical character he developed in after life. The writer of this tribute was a frequent and welcome guest at the home of Samuel Durborow, and never has been seen family happiness and domestic love and unity carried to a higher degree of perfection. On the writer's return from the U. S. service at the conclusion of the Civil War, his first winter at home was spent in teaching the Two Taverns School; and the brightest, most winsome pupil there was the lad, Charles T. Durborow. Whilst yet a youth, Rev. Durborow evinced an inclination toward the Methodist ministry, influenced thereto largely through the teachings of his pious mother whose maiden name was Mary Coshum, of a prominent Mount Pleasant township family. In the sacred office, Rev. Durborow, rose rapidly from one position of prominence to another, until he had become a tower of strength to the denomination of his choice, and one of the most widely known and popular ministers west of the Mississippi. The scope of this article will not permit a recapitulation of the many honorable church offices ably filled by Rev. Charles T. Durborow. Scarcely two months have elapsed since Rev. Durborow, after an absence of many years revisited the scene of his youthful days in Adams county. He evinced a keen delight in viewing the old ancestral home at the Two Taverns; and was especially interested in a trip to the old Pine Bank burial ground on Rock Creek for the purpose of providing for the better preservation of the tombs of his ancestors there interred. Rev. Durborow was married to Ida Sheads, daughter of Jacob and Agnes Sheads, prominent residents of Gettysburg. Besides the widow he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Annie Kirkpatrick and Miss Ida Estella Durborow, prominent in educational work. One sister also survives, Mrs. Elizabeth Hartman, widow of that public-spirited and influential citizen of Adams county, George W. Hartman. Mrs. Hartman is spending her declining years with her son, Dr. G. Willis Hartman, of Harrisburg, Pa., who occupies a high position in that city as an able physician and surgeon. For more than seventy years the writer has known and honored the various members of the Durborow family, through successive generations; and now, with tear-fingled eyes, he pens this tribute to one whose whole life was given to the service of the Master and to the moral elevation of his fellow men.

George Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, of near Conowago Chapel, died Tuesday afternoon from cholera infantum aged nine months and eight days. The funeral was (Continued on page 5.)

In Matter of Arson Charge.

District Attorney Topper states that the case of Com. vs. Howard L. Topper, charged with arson can not be tried at the August court next week, as the officers are not through with their investigations and collection of evidence. There are citizens of Littlestown who believe more than one man was concerned in the fire and the result of the investigation may lead to other arrests. The Littlestown Independent of last week in describing the suspicious circumstances attending the fire said: "During the fire it developed that many little things occurred during the night which will form a very strong case for the theory of arson. About 2 o'clock Monday morning a car was seen standing along the Gettysburg pike at the edge of town by two different parties who allege that it was McDonnell's car. This car was later traced out to the White Hall road to Baschoar's School House where it took the road leading to the Hanover pike at the edge of town."

"During the night the dogs of Dr. Spangler barked repeatedly, awakening the Doctor, who heard some noises and later heard a man run down the alley that leads to the rear of the tailor shop. He had just reached the pavement in front of Spangler's residence when the explosion occurred."

"Another man returning home on the Hanover pike met a roadster going at a terrific clip towards Hanover. This was about 15 minutes after the alarm."

"About 9 o'clock McDonnell drove into town in his car, and it was but a short time afterwards when he was placed under arrest for carrying concealed weapons without license."

"The tracks made by the car during the night were carefully traced and measured, and it was during a comparison of these measurements with the tires on McDonnell's machine that he was arrested. After a short look at the ruins of the fire he drove to the home of Wm. Dixon, where he had a room. Several of the men who had traced out the tracks were gathered about the car when McDonnell appeared and during the conversation whipped out a revolver and said he would shoot the fellow who fired his building. While flourishing the gun Officer Dutters slipped up behind him and secured it, immediately placing him under arrest."

Why Knock?

A good Tanker and soldier never knocks, specially when there is no cause or justice for it, and Camp Colt is full of such men. But some grinch, or dyspeptic, or "smart Alec," may knock when his inwards are out of order and write hot air and call it "aimless chatter." When this knocking is aimed at Gettysburg it is dollars to doughnuts that the "Gettysburg Times" can be depended upon to repeat the "aimless chatter," to bite at the hand from which it feeds.

New Train Service.

The union train service began on Tuesday, all freight transactions are at the Western Maryland freight station. The union passenger station is that of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, where all trains stop and where all travelers must go to take trains.

Lecture by

CARLTON CHAMBERLAYNE

LAST NIGHT AT CHAUTAUQUA

Carlton Chamberlayne, one-time associate editor of the Schenectady Union-Star, resigned in order to take up Y. M. C. A. work in the national army camps and cantonments in the vicinity of San Antonio, Texas. Mr. Chamberlayne, whose heart and soul have been in the efforts of Uncle Sam in his endeavor to "make the world safe for democracy" ever since the President announced it as the purpose of this country, will be a valuable addition to the Chautauqua program.

Carlton Chamberlayne is one of the best known residents of Schenectady. In later years he has been recognized everywhere as one of the best lecturers on the public platform and his talents in that direction have been in great demand. His Chautauqua work has earned for him much commendation from the press wherever he has appeared.

Mr. Chamberlayne, during his connection with the Union-Star, found time to participate in the various movements launched by the United States for war purposes. He has spoken a score of times in the interest of enlistments for the navy, the first and second Liberty Loan, the War Thrift Stamps, and other forms of service. His lecture, "Why America Fights," will be among the best on Chautauqua.

CONGOLEUM Gold Seal ART-RUGS

"That Seal Guarantees Congoleum Quality,"
—says the salesman, pointing to it on the rug.

"We are glad they put the Gold Seal where you can't help seeing it, because it protects both you and us.

"We recommend Congoleum Art-Rugs wherever a low-priced floor-covering is desired for there is nothing else that answers the purpose so well. First, it is sanitary and easy to keep clean. There is no burlap in a Congoleum Rug, so water won't hurt it. A damp mop will keep the colors clear and bright.

"Second, a Congoleum Rug is very durable. The surface is wear-resisting and absolutely sanitary. Then, too, it lies perfectly flat without any fastening.

"And remember, this Gold Seal which is on every genuine Congoleum Art-Rug, guarantees every good point I have told you about them.

"The most surprising thing about Congoleum Art-Rugs is their low price. Let us show you the many beautiful designs in our stock."

Have I Tested Your Battery this Month?

Twice a month is not too often to get inside facts—to find out whether enough water has been added—whether the charge has been kept up to the proper point—whether avoidable losses have occurred.

A test takes only a few minutes.

Just a little precaution now may save you later from the inconvenience of a motor that refuses to turn over—from lights that are dim when they should be brilliant—from actual damage to your battery.

When you come in be sure to remind us that you want to look at the Still Better Willard Battery which is the only battery with the "Bone Dry" principle that is your absolute assurance of getting a battery as new as the day it left the factory.

ATTACK YANKEE LINE IN REVENGE

Germans Launch Blow With Gas.
Artillery and Air Bombs
Combined.

U. S. FLIERS RAID BRIDGES.

Also Successfully Bomb Enemy Stations in Area North of Verdun.
Americans Lay Box Barrage.
Bomb Yards at Conflans.

With the American Army in France. —The Germans launched a combined gas, artillery and air bombing attack upon the French and Americans along the Vesle early Friday morning. This was in retaliation for a bombing raid by American airmen upon bridges over the Aisne late Thursday.

The German artillery continued shelling the crossroads south of the Vesle for hours, on the assumption that the French and Americans were bringing up troops. German aviators bombed the woods and villages south of the Vesle, apparently working in relays.

A group of 12 American aviators participated in the raid on the Aisne bridges. Early Friday other American fliers went up and took photographs for the purpose of ascertaining the effects of the bombs dropped. A great deal of traffic had been reported passing over the Aisne bridges, and the French and Americans increased the fire of their heavy guns in an attempt to destroy as many bridges as possible.

As a result of the reports of observers the French and Americans laid down a box barrage during Thursday night on machine gun nests along the hills to the northwest of Fismes. Observers and patrols reported Friday morning that 12 machine guns had been destroyed and every German gunner killed.

American aviators successfully bombed the railroad yard at Dommary-Baroncourt, in the Verdun-Metz area. Longun, north of Verdun, and Thiaucourt were attacked Wednesday. Several bursts were observed in the central and southern parts of the yard at Dommary-Baroncourt, and the installations there are believed to have been wiped out.

Three direct hits were made on the track in front of the station at Longun, and 23 bombs fell on surrounding warehouses. Certain military objectives were bombed at Thiaucourt.

An American bombing squadron commanded by Lieutenant Gundelach dropped 20 bombs on the railway yards at Conflans. Eighteen direct hits were observed in the center of the tracks in the east portion of the yard and two on the roundhouse.

The squadron was pursued by 11 enemy planes, six of which were speedily left behind. One of the remaining five was hit by the American machine gun fire and forced to descend near Joinville. Lieutenant Gundelach was slightly wounded.

The Aisne bridges bombed by the Americans were located between Pont Arcy and Gernicourt, a distance of about 12 miles.

Three Italians who escaped from the Germans and reached the American line said they saw enormous shipments of household material and similar articles and expressed the belief that the Germans had brought them forward from south of the Vesle during the retreat.

U. S. TO HAVE ARMY OF 4,000,000 MEN

Program to Crush Germany Revealed by Chief of Staff's Testimony Before Senate.

POLICY IS QUICK ACTION.

Troops to Be Rushed Across From Both Old and New Drafts—Men
From 31 to 45 Expected to Be Going Into Army in October.

Washington.—The new army to be raised under the man power bill, estimated roundly at 2,300,000 men, will provide an American army of more than 4,000,000 men on the front in France. There is shown in the testimony of Gen. Peyton C. March before the Senate Military Committee and made public in the committee's favorable report. The allied governments have decided that 3,200,000 Americans in France by June 30, 1919, will be enough to whip the Germans and the war department has undertaken that schedule, General March said. A total of 1,600,000 American soldiers are already in France.

Secretary Baker declared there will be no let up in the accelerated program of the war department to get troops to Europe from the old as well as the new draft. There are now approximately 2,600,000 American soldiers in the country and overseas, Secretary Baker said.

In reporting the administration man power bill, extending draft ages, Chairman Chamberlain disclosed to the senate that General March had told the Military Committee it was up to the United States to put enough men in France to win the war on the west front, and had expressed the belief that 4,000,000 Americans under one commander could go through the German lines whenever they pleased.

The war department has no doubt that the assistance of Great Britain in the transportation of the men will be continued and that just as soon as any camp is emptied there will be new draftees to go in, beginning soon after October 1, when the new draft is expected to begin to produce fighting men.

Under the new bill, which extends the draft ages to include all males eighteen to forty-five years, the eighteen to twenty classes will be called last. It is estimated that 1,707,000 will be of the ages of eighteen to twenty, and that but 601,250 from thirty-two to forty-five years will be available.

In the studies made of available effectives for each age group the following estimates were made: Ages 32 to 40, 448,038; ages 32 to 45, 601,236; ages 19 to 20, 1,121,634, and ages 18 to 20, 1,707,000.

INFORMATION FOR YOUTHS OF DRAFT AGE SINCE JUNE 5.

Those who must register:
Men who have become twenty-one years old between June 5, 1918, and August 24, 1918, inclusive.

Date of registration: Saturday August 24, 1918.

Time: Between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

Place: At headquarters of local board covering address of registrant. If in doubt inquire at once at nearest local board or at police station.

Penalty for failure to register: Loss of right to deferred classification, prosecution for a misdemeanor and possible immediate induction into military service.

This registration will be followed early in September by a large registration of men of the ages to be decided on by Congress.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

German tactics now are devoted to inducing allied attacks for the purpose of wasting allied man power. The allied commanders are not falling into the trap.

Japanese troops land at Vladivostok, pass in review in the streets and move on to the front, where the British have established a line. A belated message tells of capture of Irkutsk by Czechoslovaks.

British forces under Field Marshal Haig pinched off a mile wide strip of territory on a four mile front in the Lys salient, capturing a village and 400 prisoners in the process.

The French and British reported important progress toward the city of Roye, midway between Lassigny and Chaumains and in about the center of the Picardy battle front. The gains extend from near Chaumains to the south of Foye.

Correspondents report the enemy gives indications that his reserves are failing. Troops are being withdrawn from other fronts, some from Verdun, for use in Picardy. So far 36 divisions have been used in the battle that started August 3, of which 21 were in line at the beginning of the engagement.

Two Adams County Boys Wounded.

Lewis Bushman, a son of William Bushman, has been reported wounded in action. He attended Gettysburg College last year and in June enlisted in the Medical Detachment of the Fourth Infantry while here, went to Camp Green and later overseas. It is believed he was injured in the drive by the Allies south of the Marne.

Lieut. Warren Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, of New Oxford, has been reported as wounded in action and was a day and night on the battlefield before picked up and taken to a hospital. He was wounded on July 10 north of the Marne. He was in the National Guard and received his commission after training in camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and was in the 59th Infantry.

—Miss Stella Raffensperger, East Middle street, has gone to Washington, D. C., where she has been accepted as a stenographer with the War Industries Board.

—Frank B. Slonaker, Baltimore St., received from Edmund Power, now in France with the U. S. Engineers, a unique souvenir in the form of a German patent cigar lighter. It is made of brass and bears the German crest and the words "Gott mit uns."

—Lawrence Oyler, who left here some weeks ago with the detachment of drafted men who were sent to the University of Pittsburgh, has been transferred to the U. S. A. Quartermasters' School at Jacksonville, Fla., for special training.

—Mrs. Alan Stahler and son of Lebanon, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kissinger, Baltimore street. Miss Otelia Kissinger who has been visiting in Lebanon, accompanied Mrs. Stahler home.

—Mrs. Smith and Miss Bessie Smith, of Mechanicsburg, and Miss Elizabeth Hall, of Melrose, Mass., are guests at the home of Hon. and Mrs. E. P. Miller, York street.

—Mrs. Samuel Weikert has returned to her home on Steinwehr avenue after a three weeks' automobile trip to Houston, Texas.

—Rev. E. W. Stonebraker, of Lovfield Reformed church, visited Gettysburg this week. Mr. Stonebraker ettsville, Va., formerly of Fairfield, has been commissioned an army chaplain and will report for foreign service Sept. 1st.

THE CIRCLE IN THE SQUARE.

ence and create sentiment. Our executives must take hold of the work and carry it out intelligently and thoroughly by soliciting wise counsel and employing paid agents.

Ladies and gentlemen, we can say with Saul of Tarsus, "We are citizens of no mean city." We are the free-born citizens of a Great Republic. We live in a place upon which nature has bestowed rich and varied gifts. For a century Gettysburg has cultivated higher education and produced men and women, distinguished in art and letters, in science and theology, in law and medicine. The scenes here enacted have made Gettysburg as immortal as Rummymede and Waterloo. Hither will come from generation to generation the student and the scholar, the soldier and the patriot to visit our schools and to lay laurels upon the hallowed dust of those who here "gave the last full measure of devotion" to the sacred cause of human freedom.

Let us do our humble part in making the present Gettysburg worthy of its illustrious past and its more glorious future.

The committee of citizens having charge of the erection and creation of the circle had selected H. T. Weaver, Roy P. Funkhouser and Wm. Arch. McClean as Committee on program for the presentation. Mr. Weaver presided as master of ceremonies and in opening the exercises told how the circle had been secured through the co-operation of the efforts and money of a number of our citizens. The circle had cost approximately $1600 and $800 had been subscribed in money and materials, and it was expected that the generosity of those who had contributed would be met by many who had not yet given and make it possible to have the circle paid for at an early date.

Allan B. Plank had donated the large center pole with globes and lights. He had also given a month's time in superintending the work. He gave the use of his truck for hauling of materials and filling without a cent of charge for it. Without his labor and interest the construction would have been a very difficult matter.

The eight light standards about the circle were donated as follows: two by George F. Eberhart, one of them in honor of his father, Frank Eberhart; one by M. K. Eckert in honor of his father, Amos Eckert; one each by G. W. Weaver & Son, Dougherty & Hartley, R. P. Funkhouser, P. W. Stallsmith, and George W. Chritzman.

All of the bricks for the pedestal were donated by the Auburn Shale Brick Company. The Gettysburg Electric Company donated eight large lamps. The lamp fixtures above the four drinking fountains were the gift of Mrs. Dorsey Dougherty. Col. John P. Nicholson gave the four iron balls for the small pedestals. The Adams County Hardware Company gave all of the nails and other hardware necessary to construction work. Local dealers furnished at cost all of the cement required.

George C. Baum, of Philadelphia, is the architect of the circle. He is a graduate of Gettysburg College and has designed the Academy Building and other improvements here. He gratuitously contributed his services to the circle and the credit of its artistic simplicity is due entirely to Mr. Baum.

Mr. Weaver stated that he had the assurance of all the members of the Town Council that when the committee was ready to announce that the park was free of debt, they would prepare to pave the space between it and the curb with some permanent road making material.

In accepting the gift of the circle Wm. Arch. McClean said: The occasion is one of peaceful purposes and light in the midst of war, and to celebrate the splendid gift of a number of our progressive citizens and business men. The circle will have many values. It will lighten the labors of the police for no longer will they be busy standing still where the circle once stood. It will save their voices, for no longer will they need to call out "To the Right!" for the circle will do the work for them.

The great value of the circle is the inspiration of doing something for the old home town. Too many take the old home town as a matter of course. It becomes a place to get a living in business, in trades, occupations, professions. Without the old home town performing this function many would be without the means to live. Yet because the old home town does these very things it is a place that should receive attention money, efforts to push it along, and make it a better and more up-to-date place to live in.

Many knock the authorities, forgetting that disinterested citizenship is a disinterested town council. Many citizens never say anything to a town committee unless it is a knock or a fault, or to ask for something to benefit their immediate neighborhood. If the citizens are interested in the town, they will get back of the town authorities to support and beautify the town, where they could be accomplished.

This circle will be an inspiration to an awakened citizenship and a simple way of doing other things for the town. As a token of this awakening the citizens of Adams County are interested in the town and the town authorities to support and beautify the town, where they could be accomplished.

The circle will be an inspiration to an awakened citizenship and a simple way of doing other things for the town. As a token of this awakening the citizens of Adams County are interested in the town and the town authorities to support and beautify the town, where they could be accomplished.

L. L. Taylor led the singing and among the songs were "America," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "God Keep and Guide Our Men," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Gettysburg citizens were enthusiastic in their praise of the beautiful circle and the lights turned on for the first time Saturday night. The circle is 96 feet in diameter and the concrete work required 140 barrels of cement. A receptacle under the center pedestal will hold 200 pounds of ice to cool the water in the fountains.

DEATHS.

held Wednesday from Conewago Chapel. Rev. Charles Koch officiated. Burial was made in Conewago Chapel Cemetery.

Miss Wilda Elizabeth Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Day, of Menallen township, died Wednesday evening from heart dropsy and attendant complications, aged 17 years, 1 month and 7 days. She had been ill for more than a year and at times was a great sufferer. She leaves her parents and one sister, Marian M. Day, at home. The funeral will be on Sunday, meeting at the house at 9:30 A. M. Services at 10 o'clock in the Bendersville Lutheran Church, of which she was a consistent member, having joined the congregation on May 22, 1917. Services by the pastor, Rev. W. D. E. Scott. Interment in Bendersville Cemetery.

Mrs. Emma C. Bair, wife of G. Milton Bair, died suddenly at her Hanover home Wednesday evening from the result of a paralytic stroke. Mrs. Bair had been in ill health for several years. For several months she had been under treatment following an examination by a specialist and seemed to be improving in health. Wednesday night as she was sitting on the front porch with her husband and several friends she received the paralytic stroke. She was in her 69th year. She was a native of Hanover and active in the life of that town. She leaves besides her husband two sons, W. Edward Bair, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Ray W. Bair, of Baltimore. One brother also survives, A. C. Welsh, of Charleston, W. Va. The funeral will be held this Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Ralph Bergstresser, of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, officiating, and interment in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Hanover.

Streets to be Repaired.

Captain Frank B. Moore, of the Quartermaster Corps, met with the Town Council on Wednesday evening and proposed that if the stone was furnished for the repair of Steinwehr Avenue from Baltimore street to borough lines and for Washington street covered in front of the camp, it was proposed that trucks would be furnished for the hauling of the stones and labor to place the stones on the streets. Mr. Farrel would do the rolling and tarvia would be furnished by the United States for the top dressing. It was stated that the Park Commission will co-operate with the government for the resurfacing of the Emmitsburg road to the Peach Orchard in the same way.

The Town Council at once accepted the proposition of Captain Moore and the Highway Committee was ordered to go ahead and secure the stone and start the work as quickly as it can be done.

WEDDINGS.

Mumper—Nickey.—In the rectory of St. Francis Xavier Church, Gettysburg, last Saturday evening, Miss Catherine Nickey, of Hanover, was married to Fred L. Mumper, of Gettysburg, by Rev. W. F. Boyle. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nickey. A supper was given at the home of the bridegroom, following the ceremony. The newly married couple will reside at No. 7 Stratton street, Gettysburg.

Mummert — Peterman. — Paul H. Mummert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mummert, of Porters, and Miss Myrtle A. Peterman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Peterman, of Abbottstown, were married Aug. 15 by Rev. A. M. Hollinger, in Hanover.

Leibing—Maclean.—At the Methodist parsonage last Saturday, Rev. F. H. Brunstetter married Miss Catherine Maclean and Arthur C. E. Leibing, both of Montana. Mr. Leibing is stationed at Camp Colt.

Wehler—Shriver.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shriver, of Hanover, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Bruce Ellen, to Prof. Chas. H. Wehler, son of Mrs. Mary E. Wehler, also of Hanover, formerly of New Oxford. The wedding took place at the home of Dr. Charles E. Schaffer, Philadelphia, on Friday, August 9, at noon. Prof. and Mrs. Wehler will reside in Camden, N. J., where Prof. Wehler is instructor of chemistry in the Collingswood High School.

Mundis—Sites.—Arthur H. Mundis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mundis, of York, and Miss Hazel Sites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sites of near Gettysburg, were married in Hagerstown August 12 by Rev. W. L. Lynn. Mr. Mundis is an employee of the Diamond Silk Mill, York. Mrs. Mundis, before her marriage, was an employee of the American Chain Works in York.

Speck—Stitzel.—Greta C. Stitzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Stitzel, of near York Springs, and Fernan Speck, of Clear Springs, were married at the York Springs Lutheran parsonage on Tuesday evening, August 13, by Rev. Paul Glascheier.

Distinguished Guests.

Gettysburg had two distinguished guests last Saturday. Thomas A. Edison, the wizard, who visited his son in the Tank camp here, and John Barroughs, the naturalist. They were at the Hotel Gettysburg. After leaving Gettysburg they were joined by Henry Ford and Ed. N. Hurley of shipbuilding fame, and others, the party going on a trip to the Tennessee Mountains. Edison took in the early Saturday morning market in the Square and when his presence was discovered goodnaturedly he shook the hands of many of our people at market before he escaped to the hotel.

Registration.

On Saturday, August 24th, all young men who have passed their twenty-first birthday between June 5 and August 24, must come to the Court House at Gettysburg and register.

AFTER the present World War there will come a SECOND GREAT WAR, a struggle for supremacy in every form of human activity. Young men and women, now is the time to prepare, and the place is at that old and well established institution, MILLERSVILLE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, Millersville, Pa.

Prepare to teach. The salaries and other inducements have never been so great.

Millersville offers a delightful home, a strong faculty, thorough academic and professional training. Tuition free. A limited number of young men and women can earn part of their expenses by doing work outside of school hours.

School opens Sept. 9th. For information and catalog apply to C. H. GORDINIER, Principal.

POPCORN WANTED

Persons having Popcorn for sale should bring it to Highland's Candy Kitchen, 31 Carlisle street, Gettysburg, or to Hanover Shoe Shining Parlor, Center Square, Hanover. Good prices—10 cents per pound shelled or 7 cents per pound on the ear.

Avoid "Curiosity" Telephone Calls

IN these times of great public tension, something unusual may occur, causing a flood of "curiosity" telephone calls; such calls, made at such times, may seriously delay important messages.

You recall what happened at the time of the Eddystone, Pa., explosion—how the great volume of "curiosity calls" seriously congested the lines.

Telephone connections must be established as fast as the fingers of the operators can fly, and as lines are available, irrespective of the relative importance of the calls.

So you can render a service to yourself, to others and to the Telephone Company—responsible for service to all—if you will refrain from making "curiosity calls" and confine the use of your telephone to messages of real importance.

Hon. Andrew R. Brodbeck Candidate for Congress

Extract From Mr. Root's Address at the Annual Meeting of the National Security League
Held May 8th, 1918.

"We are going to elect a Congress this coming fall. There is one great single predominant qualification for an election to that Congress, and that is a loyal heart. (Applause).

"I don't care whether a man is a Democrat or a Republican or a Progressive or a Socialist or a Prohibitionist, or whatnot, he must have a loyal heart, or it is treason to send him to Congress. (Applause). There are probably from twenty to thirty Congressional districts in this country where there is a loyal majority but where there is so large a disloyal minority that a division of the loyal majority may let a pro-German in. In every one of those districts, Democrats and Republicans and all loyal men should get together, and agree upon the loyal man of one party or the other who is the surest to carry the district, and all unite on him without regard to party. (Applause).

"Any man who would not accept the idea and follow it, I would want to live a hundred years to vote and work against. (Applause). Human nature has not changed. There are going to be parties, going to be politics hereafter; but now they are subordinate, they are unimportant. The one thing only is to win the war, and put men in Congress who will represent the driving power of the American people; the driving power that is behind Congress, that is behind the Administration, and that, God grant, may make itself felt behind the men who are pattering over contracts and lingering on the road to victory. (Applause).

"The great thing is to make Germany feel that the hundred millions of America are going, as one man, to beat them (applause), to make every American feel that all the rest of the hundred millions are with him in his mightiest efforts to beat the German. (Applause)."

Reflect. Apply the words of this great American to the situation in this Congressional District. The man to elect without regard to party is the man who has been representing the driving power of the American people.—Brodbeck

RECIPE MAILED FREE
A veteran business man, who was almost completely bald and had tried numerous tonics, lotions, shampoos, etc., without benefit, came across, while on a journey, an Indians' recipe by which he grew a complete crop of healthy, luxuriant hair that he now possesses.
Others—men and women—have reported remarkable hair growth by the same method. Whoever wishes the recipe may obtain it free by writing to John Hart Brittain, BA-222, Station F,
New York, N. Y. Or obtain a box of the ointment, Kotalko, made according to the perfected recipe, at the drug store, ready for use.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth
In a vast number of cases, when hair falls out, the roots are not dead, but remain imbedded in the scalp, alive, like seeds or bulbs, needing only fertility. The usual alkaline shampoos, alcoholized hair tonics, etc., are of no avail in such cases. The Indians' ointment nourishes the hair and stimulates the growth.
Kotalko fertilizes the scalp and induces hair growth in every case possible; wonderful results reported. For men, women's and children's hair. If you are bald, or losing hair, or have dandruff, you should try Kotalko. It is a pleasure to observe the starting of new hair and its steady increase until a prolific growth supersedes thin hair or baldness. Cut out this notice;
show to others who want beautiful hair.
The recipe is free. This is genuine.

Explanation of "O. K."
Here is the origin of the expression
"O. K.," according to Ado Hunnius of Leavenworth, Kan., a veteran of the Civil war:
"Among the supplies that the war department used to buy," Mr. Hunnius says, "were crackers made by the old Orrins-Kendall Cracker company in Chicago. The boxes in which these crackers came were marked O. K. We were always eager to get hold of these 'O. K.' crackers, because they were always sure to be good, while many other brands were likely to be spoiled or wormy. And gradually O.
K. came to be a synonym among the soldiers for something that was above par."

P. C. Flat impost Plan.
Surtax Schedule From 3 Per Cent. on $5,000 to 75 Per Cent. on Incomes of Over $5,000,000.

Washington.—The House Ways and Means Committee decided on the following:
An 8 per cent. exemption, in addition to a specific $3,000 exemption on the excess profits of corporations, with a tax of 40 per cent. on all excess profits between 8 per cent. and 20 per cent., and a tax of 60 per cent.
on all excess profits exceeding 20.
The committee is writing this schedule into the $8,000,000,000 revenue bill also adopted the treasury's alternative plan for a flat 80 per cent. tax on war profits.

The committee agreed to three classifications of business for purposes of deduction from war profits.
The deduction from pre-war earnings is:
Financial and transportation corporations, 8 per cent.
Manufacturing, farming and general business, 10 per cent.
Mining and kindred hazardous businesses, 12 per cent.
Chairman Kitchin said unless there is something to change the situation the normal income tax rate will begin with 5 per cent. on the first $4,000 and 10 per cent. on all incomes between $4,000 and $5,000, the surtax beginning at $5,000.
The surtax schedule, Chairman Kitchin said, probably would stand as agreed to with the following percentages: $5,000 to $7,500, 3 per cent.; $7,500 to $10,000, 6 per cent.; $10,000
to $15,000, 10 per cent.; $15,000 to $20,000, 15 per cent.; $20,000 to $30,000, 20 per cent.;
$30,000 to $40,000, 25 per cent.; $40,000 to $50,000, 30 per cent.; $50,000 to $75,000,
35 per cent.; $75,000 to $100,000, 40 per cent.;
$100,000 to $200,000, 45 per cent.; $200,000 to
$500,000, 47 per cent.; $500,000 to $1,000,000,

71 HE WAS A RABBIT DOG SO SIMON SIMPLE BROUGHT HIM ALONG

Van Vivier's Scoop

By F. M. OLIVER

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

Existence, as Philip Van Vivier planned it, was to be a very pleasant affair, though it had little enough about it of that strenuous life so ardently advocated by Mr. Roosevelt. He had youth, and health, and wealth, and he pictured the future a gay kaleidoscopic mingling of golf, and polo ponies, and grand opera, and little suppers after the play.

Then, too, to crown it all, there was Madge. Madge, tall and slight, and sweet, with the tawny gold in her hair, and the eyes that changed with every changing thought—that were as blue as summer skies when she smiled, and grew black as midnight when she thrilled to any deep emotion. Philip could hardly remember a time when he had not loved her. They had grown up, boy and girl, together, with something singularly similar in their fate. Both were orphaned children, left to the untender care of unwilling relatives, and Philip never forgot the moment of their meeting. His uncle's place adjoined that of Madge's guardian, and he had been wandering about the ground a forlorn and lonely child, when he first came upon the little maid. She gave one long look at his somber face, and mourning clothes, and then with the swift and intuitive sympathy that God gives to even the youngest child, she went up to him.

"Little boy," she lisped, for she was scarcely more than a baby, "little boy, is 'oo lonesome, and doesn't nobody love 'oo?"

"No," he answered with a sob from the depths of his hungry little heart.

"Don't cry, little boy," she comforted, slipping her hand in his. "I'll love 'oo and 'oo won't never be lonesome any more." And, indeed, it seemed to Philip he had never been lonesome again. There was always Madge.

But who may count securely on the future? Move the kaleidoscope ever so gently, and its figures change. One turn of the hand of fate and the bright picture one's dreams painted are shattered forever. There came a day when Philip had to do, not with visions of a golden future, but with a hard and merciless present. Suddenly as an unexpected thunderbolt came the failure of the trust company in which his fortune was invested, and he awoke one morning to find himself that most pitiable of all creatures on earth—the man who needs money, and knows no way of earning it. He had taken the blow standing, with a smile on his lips, like the thoroughbred he was, and just how deep the hurt went none knew.

"Pleasant prospects," was his sole comment, with a shrug of his shoulders to those who would have consoled with him on his loss, "a beer income, and a champagne taste. Do you happen to know the best way to adjust them?"

He might meet the situation with laughter and scoffing so far as others were concerned, but when it came to Madge it was another thing. "I can't ask her to marry a beggar," he said to himself, setting his teeth, and with a face as white as death, "and I'm not pitiful enough to settle down and live on her money," and there had been a terrible scene in which he had told her this, and released her from her promise to marry him.

"Oh, Philip, Philip," she cried, clinging to him, "what good is all my money to me if I can't make things easy for you? Surely there is more than enough for us both."

Then he tried to explain to her, blunderingly and haltingly, that something that is dearer to man than even love of woman—that something which he must have, or die of self-loathing—his own self-respect.

"I couldn't live without it, darling," he said at last, passionately, "if I gave in to fate without one struggle, and was content to let you support me, I should imagine you'd get tired of such a weakling in every line of your dear voice. I should see it in every glance of your dear eyes. No, no, I must strike my fight and win my place in the world of men, or I will go drifting on the battlement of the battlement."

And in the end Madge went. The sympathy that always and tenderly hers was part of her charm, and Philip went away.

At college he had met a girl who had been left by a man who was as natural to him as the air he breathed, and she was the most beautiful girl he had ever known. A friend obtained a place for him on the staff of the morning Asterisk, where he began at the bottom of the reporter's ladder, and learned among other bitter pieces of knowledge that the public hunger and thirst for gory details of murder, and has but a lukewarm interest in the higher criticism, and that on a newspaper staff a university degree is regarded with far less respect than a nose for news.

Still, the glamour stripped from journalism, Philip kept doggedly on. He acquired a reputation for being faithful and accurate. He was a gourmand for work and the city editor began to speak hopefully of him, but no achievement comes slowly in a newspaper office, and to Philip Madge seemed an immeasurable distance off, when suddenly he made his great scoop. It was the merest accident—successes mostly are, if we knew the truth of them. One evening he was walking along one of the fashionable residence streets when suddenly he was startled by a scream, and looking up he saw a woman with the wild eyes and cowering of a maniac sitting on the very outer coping of the walls of a tall house, where she waved her arms gleefully, and leaned dizzily forward to peer into the street below. In an instant all the mystery of the drawn blinds, and jealously guarded doors of the mansion, at which many had marveled, was revealed. Here was one of those family tragedies, at which the world guesses—some poor crazed creature, living out her life within padded walls, who had escaped from her keepers, and with that instinct of flight from a prison which survives all reason, was preparing to take a fatal leap into the street below. The street crowd that seems to spring from the very pavement whenever anything unusual happens, had already gathered. They could see the frantic gestures of the keeper vainly trying to call the woman, but at every movement, the crouching creature's figure on the perilous edge made a motion as if to cast herself down, and for very fear the attendant dare not approach her. The great front door of the house was flung suddenly open and terrified servants rushed about vainly seeking assistance, but none knew what to do, and the crowd below could only wait breathlessly for the impending tragedy.

It had taken Philip but an instant to realize the scene, and with a sudden inspiration he dashed past the servant in the doorway, and up the stairway. The crazed woman was still young and pretty. A dainty silken robe, and a filmy lace scarf blew about her. Evidently she was a woman of fashion and society, so the thoughts flew through his mind as he dashed up the three flights of steps and through the open door in the roof through which she had evidently climbed. He knew well enough he might be going to his death, but he only smiled a little grimly, and moved on towards the pathetic figure swaying on the ledge of the wall. The woman looked up at the sound of an approaching step. She saw a handsome young man—a young man such as she vaguely remembered in that world that was not all horrible dreams and padded walls—coming toward her. When he reached her he made a courtly bow, and offered her his arm, and without one protest, mechanically, naturally, as if they had been on the ballroom floor, she arose and put her hand within it, and together they started toward the house, treading the narrow ledge, whose outer edge was death. A single push of the crazed woman's feeble hand and mutilation waited for them below, but there was not a tremble in the man's voice as he asked her:

"And what did you think of the new tenor this winter at the opera?"

In the street below the crowd stood silent, tense with excitement, until they saw Philip hand the woman, still with courtly grace, through the door in the roof, and then it broke into tumultuous cheering.

As for Philip, his one thought was to get to the office. His part in the adventure appealed to him not at all. It was what any fellow would have done, he thought, and he could leave that out, but he realized the value of the story. The secret of the darkened mansion. The closed blinds. The beautiful woman, with her wild, mad eyes—it was full of color, it was picturesque. Besides it was a scoop. No other reporter had been there, and a scoop is as dear to the newspaper heart as a first-born to a mother. There was still some of the excitement of the adventure tingling in his veins, and as he wrote he felt his description was vivid, and he turned it in to the city editor with the calm and unimpaired satisfaction of knowing that it was good "copy."

There is, perhaps, no other joy in life equal to that of the young writer who reads his own productions in type, and Philip's first conscious act the next morning was to reach for the paper. He had expected his story to be given some prominent place; perhaps to be featured. To his dismay it was not even printed. He looked the paper over twice to have suspicion deepen into certainty. It had been left out. How long he might have stared at the paper in bewilderment he never knew, but that two letters caught his eyes, as they lay upon his table. One was from the city editor of the Asterisk, and he pounced upon it for an explanation.

"Dear Van Vivier," he read, "sorry, but your scoop was scooped. The distressed damsel you rescued is old La Roux's daughter, and La Roux, as you appear not to know, is the heaviest holdholder in the Asterisk. Naturally he wanted your story killed. Virtually he rewarded, however. He suggested you for night editor in place of Carson who has resigned. Report for duty tonight."

The other letter was from Madge. It said:

"Dear Philip: I have heard of your rescue of poor Fannie La Roux. How could you be such a hero, and such a goose as to take such a risk? You need a guardian, sir, and I am going to marry you to take care of you on this day one month. You can't refuse a lady, you know. Yours, Madge."

Philip read the letter twice, and then he bowed his head on the table, and when he raised it his eyes were very dim and tender.

Goats Used as Fire Preventers.
California forest fire fighters have hit on a practical idea to prevent the spread of conflagrations. In their primeval forests when a fire has once started it is liable to devastate enormous tracts of country, and so the fire fighters make huge clearings—or breaks, as they are locally termed—on the possible line of fires. These breaks, which are fifty feet wide or so, according to the height of the forests, are, however, rapidly filled with new vegetation, and so to keep it from destroying the usefulness of the fire breaks, thousands of goats are being pastured free of charge by the government in order to keep down the growth of weeds and brush. Goats will perform this service while picking up a living, thus saving the forest service much money every year, which would otherwise go to gangs of men armed with hoes and other weed exterminators. Such small growths are a serious menace in case of forest fires, as during the dry season they will carry the flames right across the barrier designed to check them, and then no one knows what will happen.

Wife Worth Having.

Herr Blumenthal, a director of the Lessing theater in Berlin, once had great misgivings regarding the success of his new piece, "Zum Weissen Rosen."

"If I had only 20 marks for every thousand it will bring you I should be quite content," said his wife.

"All right, you shall have them," replied Herr Blumenthal.

"Zum Weissen Rosen" ("White Horse Inn") met with an immediate success. Every night the Frau Director went to the cashier and levied her 20 marks per thousand.

On one occasion, after the piece had been running some months, bad weather caused a falling off in the receipts below the thousand marks, and consequently Frau Blumenthal was not entitled to her 20 marks.

"How much have you taken?" she asked the cashier.

"Only 367 marks," was the reply.

"Well, give me a seat at three marks, then," said Frau Blumenthal, laying down the coin. "Now you have a 100 marks, give me my 29."

She got them!—Tit-Bits.

Ideal School Described.

M. Augustin Rey, a Parisian architect, has described his ideal school in a recent paper. He said that the beneficial effects of the violet rays were so well known that it was criminal to build in such a way that they could not penetrate to every part of a room; it was doubly important that they should be possible in schoolrooms.

There was a choice between heat, ventilation, and sunshine we should see that we had the sunshine first. The building was so arranged that the classes should meet in the east rooms in the afternoon after the morning sun had thoroughly disinfected them and in the west in the morning, since the afternoon sun would have disinfected the western rooms on the previous day. There should be plenty of ground and plenty of sand about school houses. It is better to economize in decorations than in sunlight and ventilation. He said that while this was his ideal school, he preferred the open air school.

Killing Made Painless.

In English slaughter houses animals are killed by a new and humane method. The instrument employed is a spring operated pistol that projects a sharp blade into the animal's head.

Last Thursday morning Edward Shildt, the owner of a threshing rig, began threshing wheat on the farm of James Shildt, near Flatbush. The grain was taken from a stack and went along nicely until a sudden loud explosion was heard, the charge completely wrecking the front part of the separator and threw Augustus Kuhn, who fed the machine, some distance. Fortunately he was not hurt. The explosion was caused by dynamite, but how and why the dynamite was placed in the stack is a mystery.

FOR ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, CATARRH, COLDS, LA GRIFFE, ETC. CONSUMPTION PREVENTIVE—NOT A PATENT MEDICINE.

There are few diseases more prevalent than Asthma; few more distressing and painful and few more tenacious and dangerous. The several forms are known to medical science as Bronchial Asthma, Catarrhal Asthma, Hay Asthma (Gather more commonly known as Hay Fever). Repeated attacks result in a chronic Asthmatic condition, the symptoms of which are a dilation of the lungs and bronchi, and tubercular formations.

La Grippe and even the simple cold neglected often lead to fatal results. There is nothing more menacing to one's health than the ordinary cough or cold.

THE EIKER HOFF REMEDY is a specific for all of the above troubles. It has helped and relieved thousands and will help you. The EIKER HOFF REMEDY is in no sense a patent medicine, but is a legitimate prescription and the outcome of years of study, investigation and experiment by Prof. Hoff, one of the world's leading physicians.

If your druggist does not keep it, upon receipt of $1.00 either cash or money order, we will send a bottle with full directions to any part of the United States or Canada.

Within the past ten years thousands of testimonials have come to us from sufferers with Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Every home should have a bottle always on hand as a specific for the simple cold. See that it is a bottle with full directions on every bottle. No other is genuine.
